

Name: _____

Date: _____

Gods and Heroes: Mythology Around the World Double-Entry Journal

The Double-Entry Journal allows you to journal a few of your thoughts while reading so you have something to refer to when we return to school and have a discussion. AS you read, when you find something that made your “Aha!” lightbulb go off you will jot it down. Anything that strikes you as interesting or you can relate to or made you wonder. Choose at least one from each of the cultures listed below, then select a few of your own choice!

Pg.#	 The Text Says...	 My thinking is...
cite page #	Directions: Choose a myth from the book that you found interesting or something about it stood out to you.	Directions: Write a comment, observation, question you have, a connection you made, a relation of experience, an analysis or whatever your thinking was at the time.
p. 127	Japanese/Shinto Tradition: Izanami & Izangi “Even in death, more gods emerge. They came from her poop, pee, and vomit...” “In death, she had become a rotting, maggoty corpse...Izanami herself came for him...he blocked her... and escaped.”	- gross! Wonder if the “foul” origins represent the type of gods that they were... were they dark, bad gods? - Like I know Athena was born from Zeus’s head during a headache and she is goddess of wisdom in Greek mythology. - they had ancient zombies in Japan??
	Sumerian/Mesopotamian Tradition:
	Egyptian Tradition:
	Indian/Hindu Tradition:
	Chinese Tradition:

	Greek/Roman Tradition:
	Your Choice:
	Your Choice:
	Your Choice:	